TWO DESPERATE CRIMINALS ESCAPE. THEIR GUARDS IN THE PENITENTIARY WERE

PROBABLY ASLEEP-NO ONE SAW THEM GO. The escape of two colored prisoners from the King-County Penitentiary was discovered yesterday morning by the keepers. They are James Furman and George Walters. The former is regarded as one of the most dangerous criminals in the courty. prison for a third of his life, and escaped once from a prison van while being taken to the peniterilary by cutting a hole in the bottom of it. On May 6 he was sentenced to the peniterilary by Police Justice Petterson for two years and a half for robbing a liquor shop. When taken from the courtroom he said he would not serve out his term, and threatened is return and hill the justice who sentenced him. He was placed in cell No. 15 on the second tier of the long term prison at the penitentiary by Warden Hayes with Walters, who had been sentenced to a year and cight months for assault on April 28. There are four tiers of cells in the long term prison, surrounded by At night two keepers are locked in broad corridors. this portion of the prison with the prisoners, who are all locked in their cells, the doors of which are half-inch trop bars. James Dunning and Patrick McClafferty were the two keepers who were on duty Sunday night in this part of the prison. They were locked in at 10 p. m.

About 5:30 a. m. yesterday they called a hull keeper and said that two prisoners were gore. Investigation showed that Furman and Walters had sawed off one end of two of the bars in their cell door and had bent them aside so as to be able to pass through. The keepers must have been asleep or otherwise engaged for the two convicts made their way to the lower part of the tier, where some short ladders had been left by men engaged in whitewashing the prison on Saturday. Two of these were lashed together by Furman and Walters with pieces of cord such as is used in the shop where the men worked to the up bundles. The ladder was carried to the end of the corridor, where there is a small round window high up looking out upon the prison yard. The two mes climbed to this and wrenched out the small cross-bars which obstructed their exit. They then fastened a piece of the cord to a stone projection on the inside of the window and squeezing through let themselves down about twenty feet by the cord and dropped the remaining ten feet to the ground.

They were then in the penitentiary yard, with a thirty-foot stone wall between them and liberty. They found some empty barrels and a long iron rod, out of which a hook was made. By climbing to the top of which a hook was made. By climbing to the top of the barrels piled on each other, they managed with the hook to draw themselves to the ton of the wall and then dropped from it to the earth outside and fied.

The police were at once informed of the escape and search was made for the men. The two keepers and Thomas Ryan, who had charge of the yard, were another than the suspended pending tryestigation, which will be made to-morrow by the Commissioners of Charities and Corrections. The report of Warden Hayes to them shows that the men were not seen by the keepers from 7:30 p. m. on Sunday night. A common table from 7:30 p. m. on Sunday night. A common table thife, made into a saw was used to cut the bars. The prisoners also left a razor and a screwdriver belind them. How they secured these articles is not belind them. How they secured these articles is not belind them. It is supposed that the men after escaping secured citizen's clothing from friends in the negro quarters near the penitentiary.

ALDERMAN M'KEE ON TRIAL.

HIS IS THE SECOND CASE GROWING OUT OF THE EXPENDITURES BY THE CITY FOR THE COLUMBUS CELEBRATION LAST FALL.

The second of the trials growing out of the expenditures by the city for the Columbus celebration last fall was begun yesterday before Judge Moore in the Court of Sessions. William McKee, a district Alderman, who served as one of the committee of the Common Council in charge of the celebration, was called to triel upon an indictment charging him with presenting and aiding, abetting and conniving at the sentation of a false and fraudulent bill by Patrick Ross of $11,400 for reviewing stands. James H. Pigott, Plan Clerk of the Buildings Department, who supervised the erection of the stands, and was said have done the work and induced Ross to put in the bill, was tried a fortnight ago, but the jury disagreed. McKee is one of the three Aldermen indicted in connection with the affair and was chairman of the committee. At Pigott's trial be testified that the committee. At Pigott's trial be testified that the charges for the stands were reasonable, and that the contract had been made with Ross. There was a panel of 300 talesmen called, a few of whom were excused, after 113 had answered to their names.

Alderman McKee sat near his coansel, J. A. Wernberg and Edward J. O'Bwyer. District-Attorney

Ridgway and one of his assistants, John Clark, appeared in behalf of the people. From the sitting of the court up to adjournment until 10 o'clock torning the time was occupied in efforts to obtain a jury. Judge Moore occasionally took hand in questioning the talesmen and thus helped disease.

GUETERBOCK COMMITTED SUICIDE.

THAT WAS THE VERDICT OF THE CORONER'S JURY-THE PRISONERS, HOWEVER,

ARE HELD. Coroner Schultze held an inquest yesterday in the case of Editor Bernard H. Gueterbock, who died from pistol shot wound at his home, No. 175 East Seventy-ninth-st., on Saturday night. His wife, her ervant, Anna Raben, and a visitor, Charles Otto Baese, a Custom House broker, who were in the flat at the time the police discovered the dead body, Policeman W. H. Morils, of the Twenty-seventh Preduct, said that when he was called to the apartments at the request of a man he found Mrs. Gueterbook and Mr. Daese in the room with the dead man, H was examined by Assistant District-Attorney O'Hare who represented the people. Dr. Leon Bergheim who was called in by the servant girl at the request of Mrs. Gueterbock said that he thought that Gueter bock committed suicide.

Bernard II. Gueterbock, a consin of the dead ma was then called. District-Attorney O'Hare asked the witness if he knew whether Gueterbock was in the habit of using his left or right hand. The witness said that his cousin could use both hands well, bu he thought he could use the left hand better than the

At this statement Herman Eldder, who is the business manager and part owner of "The Stant-Zeitung," and a personal friend of the dead editor astonished every one by standing up and saying "I believe that the witnesses are willing to swear any thing in order to bring this inquest to a speedy Issue. I know the deceased was right-handed."

Mrs. Gueterbock and Mr. Baese gave corroborative testimony as to what occurred from the time they and the dead man left the wine room in Third-ave until they entered the flat. The purport of their evidence was that Gueterbock was grumbling and muttering all the way, and when they got to the parior in his apartments he struck his wife a blow in the face. Basse reprimanded him for this and the editor begged his wife's pardon and hissel her. He then went to the rear of the flat to get some He was gone a long time and his wife went to look for him. She found him lying on his back the girl and Bacse to the room and she sent the servant at once for a doctor.

Deputy Coroner Frank J. O'Hare then told of the autopsy which he performed on Sunday night. He said that the man could have shot himself by holding the revolver in his right hand and using either the thumb or forefinger on the trigger. From the burned condition of the clothing he was of the opinion that Gueterbock committed suicide.

The jury retired at 5:45 p. m., and half an hour later they returned with a verdict that the man came to his death from shock and hemorrhage, caused by a pistol shot wound, which was self-inflicted. Coroner schultze discharged the prisoners, and they were taken back to the Harlem prison. Owing to the way in which Judge Eurke committed the pris-oners the Coroner could not release them from cus-tody.

Justice Simms, sitting at the Harlem Police Court yesterday morning, refused to accept ball in the case of Mrs. Gueterbock, C. Otto Baese and Anna Raben, the servant girl.
